LAST HONOR PAID DEAD SENATOR BACON

A black and white illustration titled "THE NATION'S LOSS". It depicts a woman in a long, vertically striped dress and a small hat, kneeling and placing a laurel wreath on a casket. The casket is draped with the American flag, with the stars and stripes clearly visible. A small rectangular plaque is pinned to the flag, bearing the inscription "F. B. S. 1861-1881". The casket is heavily adorned with a large arrangement of flowers. The background is filled with expressive, radiating lines, suggesting a scene of great public mourning or a significant event. The artist's signature "D. B. S." is visible in the lower left corner.

ATLANTA WILL PAY HOMAGE TO BACON AT GEORGIA CAPITOL

Fight for Frank's Life May Last for Many Months What Procedure Will Do

PROBE IS RECOMMENDED OF SAM CRANE CHARGE

One Report Favors General Probe, Other Favors Probe of Crane Charges Only

Atlanta will pay homage to the memory of the late Senator Augustus O. Bacon, who died at his home in this city on Monday, June 10, 1902, at 11:40 a. m. at 11 o'clock when the body of the distinguished statesman arrives in this city en route to its final resting place in Macon.

The special train bearing the body of the senator is expected to arrive over the Georgia Railroad at the city station as passenger train at 11:40 a. m. At 12 o'clock the body will be taken to the capitol and convey the governor's party to the depot. In the party will be his wife, Mrs. Augustus O. Bacon, and other state house officials. Governor Bacon will be accompanied by his wife and receive the escort in the executive office when they arrive. This additional honor will be paid to the late senator in conference with Senator Hoke Smith on Tuesday.

The body of Senator Bacon will be taken up to the promenade at the station and placed in the hearse. The hearse, borne by six men specially selected for the purpose, will be taken through a double line of Marine and Georgia National Guards, and will be placed in the waiting hearse.

The funeral will be held at the funeral procession, headed by the Seventeenth

[illegible]

In the procession the Seventeenth Infantry from Fort McPherson will follow over its land. Then will come the Cavalry over its land. The Artillery and Georgia Military college cadets will be next in line. Behind them will march the members of the escort of United Confederate veterans. The escort formed into two columns will march between the ranks of that order to the state house. Carriages containing members of the general party, state and other officials.

At the Washington street entrance to the capitol the Seventeenth Infantry will form a line and stand at attention until the president has taken up the steps the Fifth Georgia regiment will form a double line facing the capitol building.

Senator Bacon's body is expected to reach the capitol at about 12:30 o'clock and from there will be carried to the residence of his wife.

The famous case of Dr. J. W. McMane, Jr., of Baltimore, who was accused of more or less late having received a bribe of $100,000 from the Federal Government, while all the known appeals were exhausted by the defendant's counsel, was the subject of a hearing in Baltimore, where a number of the best medical treatment for cancer, was made public today. The estate is valued at $1,000,000.

After making a cash bequest of $100,000 to the Baltimore Hospital, Dr. McMane, of Camilla, Canada, Mr. Bremner directed that the residue of his estate be given to his wife, Mrs. J. W. McMane, and his brother, Leith McMane, Jr., of Baltimore.

To his brother Mr. Bremner left $100,000, and the residue of the proceeds decide to sell the property and the proceeds are to be divided between his wife and his brother.

The dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Fish and Justice Beck covered fifty-three pages, and dealt almost exclusively with their belief that the evidence of Jim Conley and Dalton was irrelevant, immaterial and prejudicial, and therefore was inadmissible. The testimony of those two witnesses that was objected to related affairs by Frank with other women than the murdered girl.

Chief Justice Fish and Associate Justice Beck Dissent, Giving Their Belief That the Testimony of Jim Conley and Dalton Was Irrelevant, Immaterial and Prejudicial and Therefore Inadmissible

Justices Atkinson, Evans, Lumpkin and Hill in Assenting Opinion Hold That Conley Had Right to Explain Remark Which He Attributed to Frank by Relating Previous Transactions of the Accused Known to Conley.

THE supreme court of Georgia, with two justices dissenting, Tuesday affirmed the Fulton superior court's verdict of guilty in the case of Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan. While generally final the decision of the supreme court in this instance does not mean that the fight for Frank's life is ended, and while his attorneys have made no statement it is probable that the case will

From a public, if not a legal standpoint, the most important statement in the main opinion of eighty-nine typewritten pages is contained in the following paragraph:

Evidence Supports the Verdict.

"The evidence supports the verdict and there was no abuse of discretion in refusing a new trial."

In the entire decision there are approximately 35,000 words in 142

In view of the testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris about the condition of the body of the girl, the court held that the testimony charging Frank with the homicide was properly admitted.

The court held that the failure of the defense to cross examine state's witnesses, who swore that Frank's character was bad, was a legitimate ground for affirming the conviction.

The opinion states that the court does not consider the oral remarks of a trial judge in denying a motion for a new trial, when there is nothing in the written decision to show that he was dissatisfied with the verdict or had failed to exercise proper discretion.

The alleged disorder in the court room during the trial, and when the verdict was rendered, was not of such a character as to warrant the granting of a new trial, the supreme court holds, and the opinion also holds that Judge L. S. Roan, the trial judge, was right in overruling the motion for a new trial on the ground that two of the jurors were pre-

The fact that Judge Ross allowed the solicitor general to conduct a preliminary investigation into the case was not unusual. In a recent case in California was not an error, the supreme court held.

The decision of the supreme court was announced about 11 o'clock on the morning of the 11th. Solicitor General Mr. Dorsey said that he had read the opinion of the court and that he would refer to The Journal a statement declaring that there is not the shadow of a doubt in his mind that the case was decided correctly.

Before Mr. Dorsey declares that this is the first statement about Frank's guilt, which he has authorized.

Mr. Dorsey said that his friend of Frank throughout his troubles, went to the Tower with J. C. Loeb, a cousin of Mrs. Frank's, and that he was very much distressed by the case.

Frank was calm and stoical. He could hardly believe the news.

Luther Z. Rosser and Reuben R. Arnold, the principal attorneys for the defense, said that they would forward the supreme court study of the opinion. Neither would forecast the next move of the case.

It is within the province of the solicitor general to immediately take up the case and to make a preliminary investigation into the criminal division of the superior court, in order that he can be prepared to present the case to the supreme court.

However it is not probable that a move to rescindence Frank's conviction will be made. The case will probably be decided in not more than sixty days next, expire between the date of the sentence and the date of the execution.

The decision of the supreme court makes the trial of Jim Connelley an accessory after the fact of the murder of Mrs. Frank.

February 22.

The head notes of the decision in the French case read as follows: "The trial of a woman charged with the murder of her husband in a factory building, in which she was superintendent where, circumstances evidence is relied upon largely if not wholly to prove the defendant guilty, is a case in which the state is permitted to prove the defendant's guilt on the basis of oral testimony of witnesses who were not present at the crime, after the discovery of the body."

"2. A young girl was killed in a pencil factory on Saturday afternoon, May 1, 1936. The body was found in the factory building, in the operation. The evidence showed that she went to the office of the superintendent for her pay, and that she had been having sex with him. The evidence from the factory building showed that she had been in the building for several days. It is inferred that the killing occurred in a room on the same floor where the body was found. The evidence from the factory building showed that she was present in the building testified that on that morning the accused had said to him that he desired the witness to watch for him and that he would be back in the evening. The witness testified that on the days, that he did watch at the door when the girl went up to the office building and that he saw her go in. The witness testified that he called on him to assist in removing the body of the deceased."

He also testified to certain signals given by the accused to him while watching. Held, that it was competent to show by the witness how he had been watching for the accused on previous Saturdays, and

BURGLAR ACQUIRES HABIT OF BREAKING INTO STORE

Tries It Once Too Often and Now He Languishes Behind Prison Bars

Monday morning when Henry Green opened up his father's grocery store, a big black negro dashed in from behind an oil can and escaped. Tuesday morning, when Henry Green opened the store, the same negro dashed from behind the same oil can and was arrested.

It's not a game of hide and seek, but a case of "it at first you don't succeed, try, try again." The negro, who gives his name as Will Gordon alias Ed Bailey, hails from Augusta, and wants to burglarize the store. He failed Monday, but ate a large breakfast and cannot go to bed. He is in the store in his pocket instead.

He talked elbly at the police barracks, saying he had stolen apples after breakfast Monday morning behind the oil can. Otherwise he would have robbed the store, so, being a per-secuting nature, he returned Tuesday before 5 o'clock after sleeping all day Monday. He intended not to be caught napping again.

When Henry Green opened the store at 8 o'clock Tuesday he walked to the back to open the windows. He was greatly startled when passing the oil can. He saw a man jump out of the front door at high speed, according to the present state of the law, but here the strange repetition of events ceased. He returned to the store in the lead of a pursuing grocer, but on the corner of Peachtree and King, the man's pockets bulged with canned goods, tobacco, candy and pickles.

At the barracks he stated he never went into the store Saturday night, making up Monday as his first time at 3 o'clock Monday morning. His means of entrance to the store was by the use of a skeleton key in the lock of the back door.

Recorder Broyles bound him over under $1000 bond to superior court, charged with burglary.

DECATUR BOARD OF TRADE PLANS DUTCH LUNCHEONS

Directors Decide to Give First of Monthly Affairs in Atlanta March 9

A Dutch luncheon each month in Atlanta, with the first to be held March 9, was decided on by the board of directors of the Decatur board of trade, after a meeting Monday night.

The details of new societies the directors of the board of trade are planning to hold in the near future. Another is that Decatur will institute some kind of a "Dutch" luncheon in her halls. Again, a publicity campaign was suggested, for the purpose of securing more immediate notice to settle in Dekalb county. The patronage of home industries was also discussed.

An effort will be made to fix the Washington-Atlanta highway through South Georgia and Decatur. Anticipating the coming of the highway, that highway will arrive soon in this section, it is expected that a large number of tourists will be attracted to Decatur and Decatur and Decatur.

Robert Ramspeck, secretary of the board, announced that a woman candidate for the board of trade is expected to be elected in the near future. The following officers of the board attended the meeting: W. J. Dabney, president; H. G. Heston, first vice president; E. H. Wilson, second vice president; Charles L. McKinley, R. C. Eve, P. F. Callahan, W. H. H. Hamilton, George M. Naper, J. V. Dunlap, J. Scott Chandler, J. E. Rodenhamer, T. S. Hodges and Robert C. Ramspeck, secretary.

NATIONAL PARK PLANS PROPOSED FOR SOUTH

Prominent Southerners to Establish Park in the Appalachians

A national park similar to Yosemite and Yellowstone and Glacier and other parks in other parts of the country, is being urged for the south by the Appalachian Park commission, of which Charles E. Case, secretary of the commission, is president. George S. Powell, of Asheville, N. C., secretary of the association, is in Atlanta in behalf of the movement, and the subject will be laid before the directors of the Atlanta chamber of commerce by Robert F. Madison, vice president of the American National bank and a director of the park association.

"The movement has gained great support throughout the south," said Mr. Powell, Tuesday. "We hope to enlist that of the Atlanta organization, and ultimately to make the matter so important that congress must act. If the government would build its highway along the crest of the Blue Ridge, and leave alone for hotels, lodges and cottages, enough tourists would visit the park in a few seasons to pay for the park."

LEO FRANK KILLS

FAIR TRIAL WAS GIVEN. SUPREME COURT HOLDS

to explain the system of such alleged signals employed by the accused, and the reference thereto by the accused.

(a) The same witness testified that, after the girl had come to the office of the accused, he had heard footsteps going in the direction of the place where he first saw the body, and after hearing the scream and the signal from the accused, the latter told the witness that he wanted to be with a little girl, and she refused him, and he struck her and she screamed. He did not know how badly she was hurt. Witness then testified that the accused added: "Of course, you know I ain't built like other men." From the condition of the body it might have been inferred that the person who did the killing sought to do a brutal and not a cause death, but it was brought about by choking the deceased with the hands. He testified that it was relevant to explain the expression above to witness, which indicated that his conduct in sexual matters differed from that of other men.

As a General Rule Certain Evidence Is Inadmissible

As a general rule evidence of the commission of one crime is not admissible upon the trial of another, where the sole purpose is to show that the defendant has been guilty of other crimes, and therefore, he more likely to commit the offense charged; but if the evidence is material and relevant to the issue on trial, it is not inadmissible because it may also tend to establish the defendant's guilt or to establish the facts of the case.

(c) Under the rule just stated, the evidence of the witness above mentioned, which it was sought to introduce to show that the defendant was a person of bad character, was inadmissible, because it was not material and relevant to the issue on trial.

(d) The evidence of the witness above mentioned, which it was sought to introduce to show that the defendant was a person of bad character, was inadmissible, because it was not material and relevant to the issue on trial.

Health Board Controversy Emerge to This Case

The details of the controversy between the former president and secretary of the health board, and their official relations were foreign to any issue involved in the trial.

The testimony of the witness above mentioned, which it was sought to introduce to show that the defendant was a person of bad character, was inadmissible, because it was not material and relevant to the issue on trial.

Foundation for the Accusation of Witnesses

(a) In any respect the cross-examination or the evidence introduced in rebuttal was not strictly within the proper range of cross-examination. It was not of such character as to require a reversal.

The testimony referred to in the seventh division of the opinion is relevant, and properly received by the court.

Frank Calm When Informed Of Court's Refusal to Grant A New Chance for His Life

Friends Carried News to Him an Hour After Decision—Frank Visits Her Husband in Prison

Leo M. Frank did not learn authoritatively of the decision against him until 5:10 o'clock. At that time Miss Frank, with the news of the adverse decision, did not believe it. It took him some time to realize that the decision had been made. He was calm, but his pale face and red eyes showed that he had been deeply affected by the announcement of the decision. When he saw the first newspaper which carried the full Tuesday declaration that the jury had found him guilty, he was the same man. He went upstairs quietly, however, and remained for some time with his wife. After they had been upstairs about half an hour, Mrs. Frank came down and the two other men came down. Dr. Marx stated that Leo M. Frank had no statement to make, but one of the other men declared that Frank had received the news calmly; that he had displayed no weakness, but maintained the same remarkable stoicism which he had shown on the stand during the long hours of the trial.

At 12:30 o'clock, Frank's brother-in-law, arrived at the jail, and went at once to Frank's cell, where Mrs. Frank still was. At 12:45 o'clock they were with the prisoner.

CANT BELIEVE IT. M. P. Gholston, partner and close personal friend of Frank, went to the jail shortly after 12:30 to see the prisoner. He was admitted to the cell, and when he came down he said that Frank seemed to think it impossible that his conviction had been affirmed. Gholston stated that Frank said he did not know how the law could condemn a large man, and that he regretted his conviction. The prisoner, however, remains unbroken, said his friend.

Neither did Mrs. Frank break down when she reached Frank's cell, according to Mr. Gholston, but maintained her composure. She was with Frank at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Frank, who went to the jail a few minutes after 1 o'clock, was still with her husband. She was in the cell a little after 1 o'clock, when Leopold Hays, one of Frank's attorneys, who spent some time with the prisoner, called at the jail.

At 2 o'clock Frank had not yet had his dinner, though it was to be served to him soon.

CONLEY SAYS HE KNEW FRANK WOULD LOSE CASE

"You've Got the Right Man Down Here and Frank Knows It," Negro Says

Jim Conley, the negro on whose testimony largely rested the state's case in the trial of Leo Frank, who has been held in the Tower under close guard since Tuesday, declared today that he believed the jury's decision of the supreme court would be the last word on the case.

"I know how it would be," Conley said. "The jury found the evidence. The jury is the law. He knows they've got the right man down here."

When asked if he thought Providence had sent him down here with direct knowledge of the case, Conley said he did not understand. "I don't know what you mean," he said. "I'm just a poor fellow."

Twenty-one true bills were returned by the grand jury Tuesday morning, but the state's case was not complete.

Three bills each were returned against C. A. Gray and W. P. Gray, the two negroes who were arrested by the county sheriff and other prominent citizens after the robbery. One bill charges robbery, another carrying concealed weapons, and the third, pointing a pistol at another man.

Men Fight On Their Stomachs Napoleon so said. A man is pretty sure to be a good man with a weak stomach. It is difficult to be a good man if he is not a good man. It is difficult to be a good man if he is not a good man. It is difficult to be a good man if he is not a good man.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery helps weak stomachs to strong, healthy action. It helps them to digest the food that makes the good, strong, red blood which nourishes the entire body. This vegetable remedy, to a great extent, puts the digestive system of the human system so that those who spend their working hours at the desk, behind the counter, or in the home are rejuvenated into vigorous health.

To many, the most important information is that conveyed by the advertisements. They are live personal messages about merchandise and service. They are planned in a spirit of cooperation—to be helpful to you and to the man who is paying for them.

THE BILL AT THE FORSYTH AS SEEN BY BREWERTON

Honey Boy Evans Is a Joy; Blanche Walsh Makes Hit

Norman Hackett in "Our New Minister" Pleases at the Lyric-Excellent Week at the Theaters

The worst waste of money called to public attention in this decade was Honey Boy Evans' foolish hiring of two dozen minstrels and the purchase of a carload of scenery. Not that his minstrel men aren't good. They're very, very good. But Honey Boy doesn't need them. You might place Evans in the middle of a ten-acre pasture, leave him merely his legs, his clothing and his cigars for accessories, and he would be funny enough to make the horse laugh.

A full house saw the new edition of the minstrel at the Atlanta Monday night and enjoyed every moment of his. There are singers who can sing, and they have songs with an appeal. King and Sam Lee and their fellows are screamingly funny in the dialogue and all the old jokes and a few new ones get by with entire success. The dancing is excellent and the stage setting lavish.

Mr. Evans saves himself for dessert, appears as the central figure at an avian meeting. There's no use trying to explain why he is funny. If you weren't there you still have three chances better get your tickets now.

For nine years the Countess Nadine trails the man who slew her husband. She pursues him on to love her and finally she succeeds in killing him. She then plans his funeral. Colonel Aleksey, who loves her, is set to inherit him.

On the night of the rendezvous of the cat, Prof. Orloff, keeps trying to postpone the killing of her husband. The countess three hours ahead of time, she confounds the killing of her husband, but proves to her that they met in the ventriloquist act, McCormack and Wallace. It is really funny. When a ventriloquist is skilful enough to endow his puppet with character, he is going some. But that's what Hugh McCormack does. Jimmy, the puppet, is a real live office boy, who jokes and chews and cries and swears like a sailor. You think to yourself, "I'd like to know that kid. He's some class."

Other acts on the bill, pleasing all, are Miss Teddy Osborn and her pet, who open; Donovan and Arnold, a pair of Irish singers; Steep, Goodrich and King, "entertainers" with a canny piano and singing slant, and last but not least, the McManis, an electrical juggling novelty.

This last act kept the audience in their seats until the movies hit the screen, which, as everybody knows, is a stunt worthy of a Harry Lauder.

That meanness and hypocrisy are not in the rural districts is demonstrated in "Our New Minister," by Denham Thompson, at the Lyric.

The play, which is an old one, has plenty of opportunities for gripping scenes and thrilling situations, but the Norman Hackett company did not come up to their usual standard in producing it. The first act was lifeless and failed to stimulate interest in the development of the plot; the second and third acts, however, showed marked improvement.

As a convict who returns to face the hypocritical ostracism of the church members of a New England country community, Edwin Hall really develops the part of Lem Ransom into a star role. Norman Hackett, as the new minister with reform ideas of charity and goodness, shows up well.

One of the features of the play was the scene which "blasted" a tramp peddling bowery tough, handed out to the pious. "Billie" Ellis was "blasted" by Charlie Dehl made a very wise man. Nance Ransom, the poor daughter of the returned convict.

"NO MANS' LAND" HOLDS STEAMER ROMA. PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 17.—The steamer Roma, which went aground last night on "No Mans' Land," weighed anchor today and proceeded on her journey here. Immigration officials expected her to arrive here during the afternoon.

Barques on the lady mailman, the country girl and the like, are a bargain. Miss Buckley does all her chaffing right on the stage in full view—well, not of the audience, but of the boxes. As Miss Buckley herself says, "this is why they charge extra for boxes."

One of the best numbers on the bill is the ventriloquist act, McCormack and Wallace. It is really funny. When a ventriloquist is skilful enough to endow his puppet with character, he is going some. But that's what Hugh McCormack does. Jimmy, the puppet, is a real live office boy, who jokes and chews and cries and swears like a sailor. You think to yourself, "I'd like to know that kid. MERCHANTS VISIT MAYOR; WANT WALKS CHANGED

Whitehall and Mitchell Streets Grading to Be Taken Up by Commissioners

A delegation of merchants on Whitehall street, between Mitchell street and Twenty street, called on Mayor Woodard Monday and asked him to send his assistance in getting the sidewalks lowered in front of their stores to conform to the new grade of the street.

The merchants had previously been before the street committee of council, and were told that the committee would take the matter up with the city commissioners without delay.

The grading of Whitehall street is practically completed, so far as the roadway is concerned, but the sidewalks have not yet been lowered to conform, and the merchants are having to make their customers climb in and out of the stores by means of temporary stairways, which they claim is hurting their trade.

VICE SQUAD TO PATROL RESIDENTIAL DISTRICTS

Plain Clothes Men Will Operate in Pairs Under Order Just Issued

The general reorganization of the city police department was given another twist Monday night when the "vice squad" recently put under the charge of Sergeant George C. Ballard was ordered to operate in pairs throughout the residential district of Atlanta.

The order creating this further change was read at 8 o'clock by Captain Terry of the evening watch, and is designed to assist the police in better coping with the series of burglaries, hold-ups and safe-blowings that have terrorized certain neighborhoods for several months.

Under the new order only two members of the plain clothes, or "vice squad," are left in the downtown districts. Sergeant Ballard and his partner, Officer T. D. Shaw, will remain on duty in the business section.

By JOHN M. OSKISON

Our old friend "prominent banker" is here again. The financial papers are interviewing him freely. His optimistic talk is like a brook of cool, running water to the thirsty ones of Wall Street. This is one cupful of cheer poured from the stream:

"In my opinion, the financial and investment situation has been cleared of the unfavorable elements that have existed in the past. The commercial

He goes on to show that as the bank commercial ventures take the hunt and men with money go slower and slower in financing commercial business, the flow of money toward stocks and bonds will increase. If you do that, of course, the market price of the stocks and bonds of established businesses will go up. But don't get it the wrong head that any permanent prosperity is going to come out of conditions of this sort. Mr. "Promises"

"I believe that if you are prompt in taking on a load of stocks and bonds at present prices, you will be able to sell them within a reasonably short time at a good profit." Later on, when prices climb, you will see other speculations from "prominent bankers" which will demonstrate with perfect logic that prices of standard securities must go down unless the commercial business of the country becomes more active.

Shape of Market

No change last week. It was only noticed

Tuesday, but following the assortment of there that there should be a full in official announcements until the lawyers get through with transactions recently signed.

The records, however, continue to disclose small transactions of average or more importance. Two such transactions were for cash or practically all cash.

During the spring and summer season a lot of activity in real estate property is expected, including both vacant and improved parcels. Weather conditions were materially better Tuesday and warmer conditions will probably not be interrupted by much winter weather from now on.

Building permits continue in fair

volume, although Tuesday's permiss were not as numerous as Monday's.

One agent stated up the situation Turkey by saying that people were now willing to trade, as opposed to a recent reluctance on their part but that this willingness in some instances was appeared by the unwillingness of owners to accept the offers made. Concessions in price are not being made, but through some traders seem to hope for the contrary.

The market is in fine shape. People who buy in a boom period always find the possibility of a recession, whereas the buyer is confronted with the possibility that he will have a future of improving conditions. There was never a boom in real estate in this city.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Two transactions were recorded on Tuesday.

1. A lot on the corner of Peachtree and

Quincy, the southeast corner of Yonge
